

6th Annual Faces of Farming - Community:

A Profession Of Partnership

We would like to invite you to partner with Central Oregon Locavore for this year's annual Faces of Farming Gala, Photographic Narrative, Silent Auction and Local Food Feast.

Farming is a profession of partnership. We farm not only out of financial necessity, but out of a deep desire to serve and nourish our community. It is a vocation that preserves cooperative culture in place, remembering the collaborations of the past and carrying them forward into the future. In a time when we find ourselves increasingly divided and isolated, finding commonality and connection is more important than ever. Food is a shared necessity that bonds us all, regardless of our beliefs. The root of our rural community is in its agriculture. We believe farming introduces new friendships that render a collective investment in the well-being of humanity as a whole.

This will be an evening of artful and delicious surprise, featuring a photographic narrative of our farmers and ranchers, a silent auction, dessert dash, cocktails, local wine and beer, and a farm to table sit-down dinner featuring the local bounty of our region.

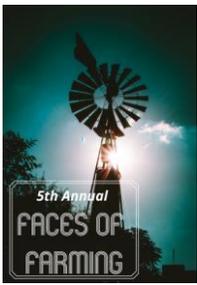

Join us as we thoughtfully curate Faces of Farming artworks and experiences— original packages designed to inspire our members and guests to support the local food movement and the programs of Central Oregon Locavore. All donations are tax deductible.

Items we are looking to include:

Services                      Food Products
Non-Food Products      Experiences
Artwork                      Lodging
Pre-assembled gift baskets

If you are interested in donating to our silent auction, please complete the attached form and/or contact Niki Timm-Branch for more information: info@centraloregonlocavore.org or 541.633.0674

We believe in the power of the land and the people who cultivate it for our health and well-being. At Central Oregon Locavore, we know that the future of farming and local food will depend upon the support of local farms and the coming generation of growers and eaters. By providing our young people, and ourselves, with an understanding of where we have been, where we are now and a vision of what is possible, we lay the groundwork for a strong local, sustainable food economy. Faces of Farming connects those passionate about our land and good healthy food, cultivates strong relationships and celebrates the potential in all of us.
